New From Schlage – Simple, Affordable Security and Access Control Solutions for Small to Medium-Sized Businesses

Specially Configured Security Solutions Lower Cost, Complexity While Improving Security

CARMEL, IND. – July 15, 2010 – Ingersoll Rand Security Technologies today announced new security and access control solutions designed specifically for small and medium-sized businesses. They feature pre-configured commercial-grade security and convenient access control solutions that are affordable and simple to manage. The new Schlage simple security solutions reduce the cost and complexity normally found in mechanical locking products while Schlage access control software provides security and risk mitigation for smaller businesses that have not previously had access to electronic security options.

“In the past, small and medium-sized businesses have relied on multiple outside services to manage their security,” explains April Noblitt, Ingersoll Rand Security Technologies director commercial real estate vertical market. “Schlage’s new solution for Simple Security and Access Control provides an affordable, right-sized solution for individual business needs with the flexibility to manage access control themselves from anywhere via the Internet.”

Whether a business has just one main entrance or needs to protect sensitive equipment and private office spaces, Schlage makes it easy to control who goes where and when. Options combine economical and proven security and access control solutions with reliable installation and service through a nationwide Schlage network of dealers and integrators.

A wide range of office and door configurations are available. No special software or IT staff is needed for any of the options since these solutions feature Schlage’s bright blue™ web-based controller, which manages a facility's points of entry immediately from anywhere the system operator is attached to the Internet.

In addition, the Schlage Simple Security Solution leverages Schlage AD-Series electronic locks and smart card credentials which provide an adaptable, modular, scalable system that lets businesses customize their systems for today and adapt it to their growth in the future. Video and service packages complete the full security offering.
